Raman, J.

According to the petitioner, he is in possession of the property despite the sale deed in favour of the first respondent executed by him. According to him, the same has not acted upon. Subsequently, he filed a suit for injunction and according to him an injunction order was in force. But subsequently, the suit was dismissed and the matter is coming up for further consideration on 18.6.2007.

2. Evidently, this is a civil dispute and this Court is not inclined to interfere in such civil disputes between the parties. However, under the guise of any dispute between the parties, it cannot slip into any law and order situation. Hence, the Sub Inspector of Police shall see that law and order is maintained. The dispute between the parties shall be resolved by a civil court.

Subject to the above direction, the writ petition is dismissed.

P.R. RAMAN,
(JUDGE)

K. HEMA,
